

Valentina Castaño Ospina

ENGLISH TEACHER

I am a young teacher with strong thoughts. I dream of a world in which teachers and students coexist not as two teams in a play they are always fighting, a world in which they are supporting each other through respect and empathy. I strongly believe it is possible if teachers stop being on defensive and start being understanding.

I do not like to teach English. I rather to teach live instead. Do not expect me to teach grammar all time, because I prefer to teach a bunch of topics related to different matters using English so students can not only know semantics but also comprehend pragmatics.
